Are You Ready For THANKSGIVING?

THE day when friend meets friend, when young folks go back to the old home, to feast on the home-fattened turkey, and the pies that mother makes.

Those lucky ones who go visiting, as well as those who entertain, of course wish to appear on that day at their very best. No store in the city can serve you quite so well, or so promptly, with clothing for man and boy, woman and girl, as WANAMAKER'S.

Nowhere else in New York City is there such a superb array of the things that are required in the kitchen, for the preparing of the feast, as will be found in the magnificent new Housewares Store that occupies the bright and spacious Basement of our New South Building. Nowhere is there better selection of the China and Glass Wares, the Table Linens, and other necessities of the Day and Feast, than will be found at WANAMAKER'S. All must be provided quickly now.

A Thanksgiving-Week Offering of Women's Tailor-made Suits

$35, $37.50 and $45 Dresses at $27.50

These suits presented the best values to be found in New York City, when marked at their former prices. They are as handsome and stylish as any models we show, at their regular prices. They include Long Coat Suits and Eton Jacket Suits, made of chevrons, broadcloths, serges and other stylish suitings. Prices are reduced because some are styles that have become broken in sizes, and others have been slow in coming in to fill up sizes, and the lines are sold out. The in-rush of new, complete varieties simply crowds these out; and these beautiful suits go to fifty fortunate women today, at $27.50 a suit.

The Semi-Annual Sale Of Dress Trimmings—Ready Today

Our half yearly Sales of Trimmings have come to be eagerly looked-for events among dressmakers and women with new gowns to make. They always afford the chance of choosing from a fine assortment of trimmings, mostly of our own importation, but in small quantities and broken lines, at

Savings of One-Half or More

Such is the case today; and, recognizing the importance of the Sale, we have provided ample space for it in the bright, new Under-Price Store. The variety offered is very broad—comprising

Black and Colored Spangled Trimmings. Persian Combinations. Black and Colored Silk Trimmings.

All in various widths and color-combinations, and without a single undesirable pattern. And the prices are fully as attractive as the goods:

25c, 50c, 75c. $1. $1.50 a Yard, formerly 50c to $4.50

Though the quantity, in the aggregate, is large, the choicest patterns will be quickly snapped up. Hence, it's good policy to hurry.

Do You Keep A Diary Or a Date Book?

Every one who does should see the big assortment of 1906 Diaries that is here to select from. Diaries in cloth or leather bindings for pocket and desk use.

—Ecclesiastical and Standard—15c to $3.50 each. Wanamaker Fountain Pens, No. 4, with 14-kt. gold pen, $1 each. A satisfactory pen for general use. Waterman Ideal Fountain Pens, at $2.50 to $5.00 each. Basement.

A Slender Waist Without Discomfort

You know the fame of the LILLIAN CORSETS. It has travelled far. The wonderful French maker from whom we import them might be expected to call them "best"; even the Parisian leaders of fashion who wear his products might have the partiality of habit.

But we had no prejudice when we chose them from out all the world; nor had New York women when they endorsed the choice.

The new model with the master-eyel makes the waist-line small and does not press uncomfortably at any point. A remarkable invention.

At $9—Latest model, with the master-eyel; high bust and small waist; gives graceful curve at back, the long skirt sloping off the hips. Made of French coutil.

At $12.50—Beautiful six-gore corset for the medium figure, with high bust and small waist. Of French coutil.

At $15—An exquisite model made of the finest grade of French coutil; beautifully finished with lace and ribbon; extra long under arms and in back; small waist and high bust.

You will be fitted by an expert, of course.

Long, Tight-Fitting Coats for Women

Day after day scores of women come in expecting to buy short jacket suits, and find themselves going away with long coat suits—simply because they are delighted with the styles we are showing.

The long, graceful lines of the tight-fitting coat show off the figure, as no other coat does; and these coats are more becoming to most women than any other style. The tailoring is beautiful, for that is the making of these coats. We have a superb variety to select from, at $18 to $45. Four particularly attractive models at $20, $25, $30 and $35.

Fine Glass Table Decorations From Thos. Webb & Sons, England

And Other Furnishings For the Thanksgiving Table

Well-informed housekeepers know, and rave over the exquisite colored glass table decorations made by this famous English concern. A new importation of beautiful pieces is shown today.

The graceful and richly colored Flower Holders will be the making of many an artistic table for the Thanksgiving feast, next Thursday. Prices of the flower holders range from a single vase, mounted on metal, at 75c. each up to a fine Center Piece, with eight vases, at $25.

Webb Glass Candlesticks, in spiral form—some of rock crystal, at $6.50 to $15 each. Candelabra, with three and four lights, at $17.50 to $25 each.

Another collection, from this same concern, presents the well-known dark green glass Vases, in every size, from 4½ inches, at 25c., up to the Trumpet Vases, 42 inches high, at $10.50 each.

Webb Glass Vases and Rose Bowls, in crystal with turquoise jewel effect, at 75c. to $2.50 each.

Of course, every housekeeper is anxious to have complete supplies of Cut Glass and Chinaware. The Wanamaker stocks are most complete at every point.

The Opinion of the French Embassy on the Wanamaker Language Phonograph

[Translation]

FRENCH EMBASSY, Washington, D. C.

February 17, 1905.

Sir:—I was present at and listened with keen interest to a demonstration of the Phonograph with which modern languages are taught. The French pronunciation seemed excellent to me.

CHARLES DE CHAMBRUN, Secretary of the French Embassy.

This is expert testimony in favor of the French taught by the most modern of all teachers of modern languages—the WANAMAKER EDISON LANGUAGE PHONOGRAPH. Similar testimony can be adduced concerning the excellence of the Spanish and German which you can also learn by this system.

Such perfect instruction in any one of these three most important foreign tongues is of inestimable value to every American who has mapped out for himself a foreign career in the diplomatic or consular service, or as a European representative of an American firm. The time has gone by when an American was pardoned for his inability to discuss important matters in the language of the country he was in—and it is becoming more and more of a necessary asset of business training to be equipped to speak at least one foreign language well.

By means of the Wanamaker Language Phonograph, this valuable asset may be procured at home, in your spare moments, yet from a patient, untiring, accurate teacher, with a faultless pronunciation. The cost of the outfit, comprising an Edison Standard Phonograph with repeating, reproducing and recording apparatus, a set of French, German or Spanish instruction books, in four bound volumes, and 25 Edison gold-moulded records, is $50.

By joining the Wanamaker Phonograph Language Club, you can have immediate possession of the outfit, at an initial cost of $5; subsequent payments, $5 a month.

Let us mail you full information, or stop in the Language Booth, Basement, Fourth avenue and Ninth street, and let us demonstrate the system to you.

GOOD BLANKETS at Unusually Low Prices

November has been so remarkably smiling that these blankets didn't go out quickly enough to suit us, and we've trimmed the prices much closer than on previous lots. The economy is sufficient to be quite worth while, to the careful housekeeper.

At $1.05 a pair—White Blankets; part-wool filling on cotton warp; 60x80 in.; silk binding; red, blue or pink borders; 4 pounds a pair.

At $2.10 a pair—Same; 72 x 80 in.; weight 5 pounds a pair.

At $2.35 a pair—White Blankets; part wool, part cotton; red, blue or pink borders; wide silk binding; 60 x 80 in.; 4 pounds a pair.

At $2.90 a pair—Same as last; size 72 x 80 in.; weight 5 pounds a pair.

At $4.00 a pair—White Blankets; pure wool filling on fine cotton warp, pink or blue borders; warm and fluffy; 72 x 82 in.; 5 pounds a pair. A remarkable bargain.

BROTHER DOOLEY UP ON CHARGE

Which Capt. Dooley Had to Prefer at Inspector Schmittberger's Order.

The Tenderloin Dooleys are in a bad way. Inspector Max F. Schmittberger not only has made several raids over the head of Capt. Dooley, but he has ordered the captain to prefer charges against a member of his own family, Brother Dooley, a sergeant there, who came up with the captain from Coney Island. Brother Dooley goes to the bat next Thursday before Deputy Commissioner McAvoy to answer to the charge of neglect of duty.

The charges grew out of a raid made by the inspector's men, Lohmeyer, Higgins, Cody and Lennon, on a house in West Thirty-first street Saturday night a week ago. The place, which was known as a black and tan joint, was one of those ordered to close by the captain at the time he held his "pink tea." When the raid was made, fourteen prisoners were taken to the Tenderloin station, where Brother Dooley was doing desk duty. Sarah Johnson was the alleged proprietress, and the other prisoners, male and female, black and white, were held as inmates, with the exception of two, a man and woman, against whom the detectives made an additional charge which the Penal Code describes as a felony punishable by a twenty year term.

The rules of the Police Department and the Penal Code do not permit a sergeant to accept bail for any prisoner charged with a felony. Only a Magistrate can do that. Notwithstanding, Brother Dooley, it is charged, accepted bail for all the prisoners. The next morning, in Jefferson Market court, Sarah Johnson and the man and woman were held for the grand jury. They were subsequently indicted. When Inspector Schmittberger heard of Brother Dooley's action he got very angry.

Capt. Dooley, at the time he took over his new command, gave strict orders to all the sergeants to accept no bail from any one in cases of arrests for keepers of disorderly houses, street walkers and the like, but the courts decided that in the case of a misdemeanor bail must be accepted immediately when offered. Since then the professional bondsmen have been busy every night at the Tenderloin station. Brother Dooley has been particularly accommodating, both to those arrested and to the bondsmen.

STILL AFTER MR. SHARKEY.

U. S. Civil Service Commission Again Overhauling the Naval Officer.

According to information which reached Brooklyn yesterday from Washington, new charges have been made against Naval Officer Robert Sharkey, the Republican leader in the Sixteenth Assembly district, and are under investigation by the United States Civil Service Commission. Early in the present year Mr. Sharkey was under investigation at Washington for alleged violation of the civil service rules in making promotions and for using his office as a political machine, but was exonerated.

It is said that the present charges against the naval officer are of a more specific character, but yesterday Mr. Sharkey declared that he knew nothing about them, but surmised that they were substantially the same as he had refuted six months ago. It is said that Civil Service Commissioner Alfred W. Cooley is coming on from Washington this week to continue the investigation. Mr. Sharkey is serving his second term as Naval Officer, and although seeking reappointment will, it is believed, be retired.

His political leadership received a bad jolt at the recent election, his Assembly district making the worst showing for the Republican candidates of any other in the county. The vote for Mayor was: Ives, 4,424; McClellan, 2,770; Hearst, 5,041. Ever since the election Mr. Sharkey has been vainly trying to explain how such a revolution could take place within a year. Gov. Higgins having carried the district in 1904 by a plurality of nearly 2,000.

BIG 6 ASKS FOR HELP.

Meets With Charges of Disturbance at C. F. U. Meeting.

Typographical Union No. 6 met yesterday and endorsed the action of its executive committee in ordering the strike last week against the Butterick Publishing Company for the eight hour work day.

The strike was brought up at yesterday's meeting of the Central Federated Union by Delegate Greenberg of Typographical Union No. 6, and caused an acrimonious debate. Greenberg said that the union had always kept its contracts and in spite of the strike against the Butterick Publishing Company would keep their agreement with the Typothetae until it expired on December 31. He then made an appeal for assistance of the C. F. U. in this strike.

As soon as he made his appeal James Holland, the chairman, left the chair and said that he wanted it to be understood that before Typographical Union No. 6 asked for the assistance of the C. F. U. it ought to establish a record for giving assistance to other unions. Holland said that No. 6 had refrained from giving assistance to other organizations by striking in sympathy on several occasions. The delegate of the Newspaper and Mail Deliverers' Union charged that No. 6 had refused absolutely to give assistance to his union when it was on strike. Other delegates made similar charges. This brought Herman Robinson, the financial secretary, to his feet.

"Now when this union is facing a fight all over the country for the eight hour work day, is not a time to remember past struggles," he said. "It is not fair for the unions to take up any grievances in a fight which is in the interest of all organized labor. No union is perfect, and no human institution is perfect."

It was finally resolved to refer the appeal of the delegate of No. 6 to the executive committee, with a recommendation that it was the sense of the C. F. U., that No. 6 should get all the assistance possible.
